

Patient Information

Methyldibromo Glutaronitrile

Your TRUE TEST® indicates that you have a contact allergy to Methyldibromo Glutaronitrile.

Methyldibromo Glutaronitrile in contact with your skin may result in dermatitis. Methyldibromo Glutaronitrile is a preservative.

Where is Methyldibromo Glutaronitrile found?

Methyldibromo glutaronitrile can be found in paints, adhesives, and oils.

Within the European Union the use of methyldibromo glutaronitrile in cosmetic products is forbidden. However cosmetic products in other parts of the world can contain this preservative.

How to avoid methyldibromo glutaronitrile

For cosmetics read the list of ingredients carefully. Avoid use of products that list methyldibromo glutaronitrile.

If you are exposed to preserved products at work, homework or hobbies, read the ingredients list and Material Safety Data Sheets carefully. Products that may contain MDBGN are e.g. paints, adhesives and oils.

What to look for

Synonyms for methyldibromo glutaronitrile are

- Methyldibromo Glutaronitrile (INCI)
- MDBGN
- Dibromodicyanobutane

Disclaimer:

Limited info is available on methyldibromo glutaronitrile. Please contact your doctor if you have questions.